Presents:

1. "Learning Strategies for Listening Activities"

Presenter: Eric Peterson, Bilgi University, Istanbul

In this workshop, teachers will identify and define different needs for listening. For example, are we using our listening skills for enjoyment, communication or academic purposes? This session will demonstrate a classroom workstation that can be implemented in your classroom to make more student centered, interactive, and learner autonomous activities to enhance your students' listening skills. Finally, teachers will brainstorm effective listening strategies that have worked well in your classroom.

2. "Pronunciation Activities"

Presenter: Eve Chambers, English Language Fellow, Ankara

This presentation begins with a brief history and description of the methodology of teaching pronunciation. After that, sample pronunciation activities for classroom use will be demonstrated. Participants will see how to use a variety of sources of authentic speech, including DVDs and CDs, to provide models for students. Emphasis is on how to make pronunciation practice fun and interesting.
